Mark N. Parry is a partner at Moses & Singer and co-chair of the firm's Reorganization and Bankruptcy group. He has extensive experience in bankruptcy, insolvency and creditors' rights, and has represented numerous clients before various United States District Courts and Bankruptcy Courts in connection with proceedings under both Chapter 7 and Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. His experience includes the representation of secured and unsecured creditors, holders of public debt, indenture trustees, and official committees of unsecured creditors. In addition, he has participated in a wide variety of litigation in federal and state courts involving fraudulent conveyance actions, breaches of fiduciary duty, secured and unsecured financings, letters of credit, foreclosures and the enforcement of guaranties. He also has significant experience with regard to the duties of corporate directors under Delaware law.
